SMOKERS' HEARTS.

D EFORE the naval recruiting station closed yesterday afternoon eight boys and young men had taken the oath that makes them Jack Tars in Uncle Sam's navy. The recruiting officers wound up all their affairs before night and left on the 10:50 o'clock Oregon Short Line train for San Francisco, taking the recruits with them. The names of the young men who will in a few days go aboard the various training ships to be trained for service in the navy are: John J. Lippe. H. W. Pratt, Alvin C. Cheshire, J. A. Ritchie, W. C. Richardson, J. T. Shim-min and A. N. Miller. The latter was a member of battery C, in the late war with Spain.

During the stay of the naval officers

During the stay of the naval officers here no less than seventy boys and young men applied for admission to the service, but the majority of them were rejected on account of their hearts, which were found to be affected from tobacco smoking. Of the seventy who applied, there were but twelve who successfully passed the examination. Of these, five were unable to obtain the consent of their parents, and were barred from entering the service on this account.

After all applications had been properly filled out, the four boys who were accepted yesterday were lined up in Lieutenant Littlefield's office and the cath was administered. An old and well-worn Bible, bearing on its outer tovering a white cross, was brought forth, and the young men formed a circle about it, each clasping the book in his right hand. As they stood thus, they repeated the oath after the lieutenant. When this had been done the holy book was kissed by each young man in succession and they were declared regularly sworn into the naval service. At 10:50 last night the young men met Surgeon Crandall at the Short Line depot and left for San Francisco, where they will immediately go After all applications had been propwhere they will immediately go aboard ship to commence the training that will fit them for active service on board one of the nation's battleships. The naval officers expressed themselves as highly pleased with their suc-cess in Salt Lake, and their only re-gret was that they could not take away with them more such boys as they secured here. The station will be opened next in Butte.

the events that led up to the Eidsvold congress eighty-eight years ago, where a declaration of independence and the constitution of Norway were formulated. The judge gave an interesting description of the political situation at that period. In another part of his address, he said:

"While we cherish the memories of the land of our nativity, there is no country in the world so dear to us as the United States of America. This land we freely selected as our future home. Here we are raising our families; here we desire to live, and here we expect to die. But of all other countries, there is none which so appeals to us as the little country of Norway, and in reading the history of our forefathers and their struggle for freedom, we cannot but feel proud of our ancestors."

J. R. Matson spoke on "Norwegians in America."

The musical part of the programme included quartette numbers, vocal included quartette numbers, voca solos by Mrs. Emma Sanders and Mrs Agnes Olsen Thomas, a violin solo by Professor Weihe, a baritone solo by John Ericksen, a piano solo by Miss Nettie Olsen and the singing of "Amer-ica" by the entire assemblage.
